Different Country, Different You

Name: ______________________________

Norris’ multiple identities—Haitian, Canadian, American, French, English—all interact together to form our unique protagonist.

Write below where you were born, what language(s) you speak, and three cultural traits from your country (e.g. climate, cultural institutions or tropes). Then, pick three countries, from three different continents, and consider what is it about their culture, language and climate that would change the way you see the world. Share your work with the person beside you and discuss your answers.
