2022 Year-End Report
Forest of Reading®&
Festival Year-End Report

New This Year

New Forest Website: The Forest of Reading® launched a new website taking over the URL forestofreading.com. The new look showcased the new branding from 2020, in addition to making everything easier to find. The goal of the new website is to increase awareness across the country and having more kids from outside of Ontario involved in the program.

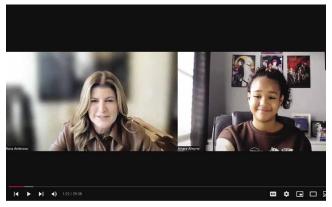

Password-Protected Website: In addition to a new website the Forest of Reading® launched a new portal for registrants to access all of the activities for each of the 110 books. In this new format registrants will find more information about the books, the nominees and over 500+ activities and 60+ virtual events for the current program year.

Forest Perks Program: New in 2022, the Forest of Reading® added a Perks program to the mix so for an additional fee registrants get access to exclusive content, including special virtual presentations, discounts at The Library Marketplace and much much more. Check out forestofreading.com/perks for all of the information.

Kid and Teen Committee

39 Kids & Teens were part of the three committees and spent three mornings deliberating about the best of Canadian books that kids in the country should be reading.

This year, the committees selected 15 books for grade 4-6 readers, 12 books for grade 7-8 readers, and 15 books for teen readers.

Forest of Reading® Festival

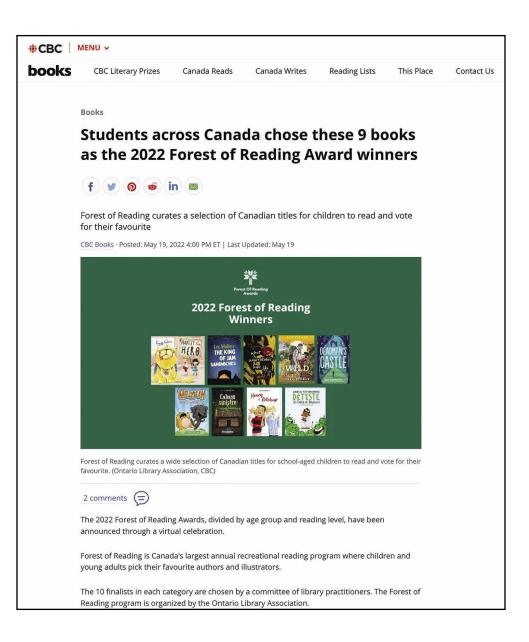

The Forest of Reading® Award ceremonies were delivered for the third year in a row, in partnership with CBC Books, on May 17, 18 and 19.

Each ceremony featured host Ali Hassan and all nominees participated.

The finalists were named, and the award winners were announced from a group of 3 finalists.

The award ceremonies are available to view on the CBC Books website:

Blue Spruce
Silver Birch Express
Silver Birch Fiction
Yellow Cedar
Red Maple
White Pine
Le prix Peuplier
Le prix Mélèze
Le prix Tamarac

The Forest of Reading[®] is an amazing program! Volunteers are offered valuable and engaging opportunities and lots of recognition. Students are excited about lots of great Canadian books, and authors and illustrators are treated like rockstars!

- Faith Roebuck Shergold, Red Maple Steering Committee

As a publisher, we eagerly await news of nominations across the range of categories we publish. We know that being nominated makes our authors and illustrators winners, both through the book orders that bump up sales very nicely and through the exposure our creators get to the next generation of readers.

— Judy Brunsek, Director of Sales and Marketing, OwlKids

The Forest of Reading® is THE most significant force in promoting literature and literacy in the country. I have been part of this program as a writer, a teacher, and as a parent. I have seen first-hand the impact of the program. Without it, Canadian publishers would be stressed and possibly would have to discontinue publishing, many writers would be forced to give up their careers – with only those with affluence being able to continue or become writers. Most importantly, this is a driving force in the development of literacy in our entire country. Children discover books – Canadian books that reflect their homes, their backgrounds, their cultures, and their country – and in doing so become more literate, more aware, more compassionate, and empathetic. This program doesn't just create better readers, it fosters the development of better people.

— Eric Walters, 2022 Red Maple Nominee and award-winning author

The Forest of Reading® is the ONLY way for me (an author on the West coast) to connect with kids in Ontario. It is a fantastic platform for authors and a privilege to be nominated. I have been invited to virtual talks from it and created lasting relationships with schools. Thank you! — Bree Galbraith, 2022 Silver Birch Express Nominee

The Forest of Reading® is the best program I've ever encountered to encourage kids to read quality Canadian books. The exposure for authors / illustrators is phenomenal, and the impact on book sales is unparalleled. I wish every province had a similar program and there was a lot more funding to help get the books into schools and homes.

— Jen Gauthier, Associate Publisher, Greystone Books

It was so wonderful to be involved! The nomination resulted in several requests from schools for virtual author visits and some fun engagement with teachers and classrooms on twitter! It is such a thrill to know the books are being read and discussed in so many classrooms–it's very inspiring and motivating to me as a writer!

- Susan Hughes, 2022 Silver Birch Express Nominee

There's no better reading program. The selection of books is Canadian top tier. The kid centered approach to reading, participating, and voting is unique. As an author I'm not sure I'd have a career without the support of this program. That's true for many of us, I'd wager. Where else are Canadian kids given such positive and wide-ranging introduction to Canadian creators? The answer is "nowhere". Can't wait until we can meet in person again, and I can see the passionate readers clutching their beloved CANADIAN books and yelling at us like we're rock stars.

- Kevin Sylvester, 2022 Silver Birch Fiction nominee and award-winning author
