Swept Away: Ruth Mornay and the Unwanted Clues
River and Bridge Diorama (STEM)

Near the end of the book, we learn that Beatrice hid the treasure under the arched concrete bridge that spanned Spencer Creek. Luckily, Ruth and Saul were able to find the treasure in a shimmer box thanks to the clues Bea left behind.

Using upcycled and consumable materials, create a diorama of Spencer Creek, Teeswater River and the bridge in Pinkerton. Don't forget to include the treasure box under the bridge!

Possible items that you can use to build your diorama:

- Cardboard
- Popsicle sticks
- Paper towel rolls
- Styrofoam
- Construction paper
- Yarn or string
- Play-Doh or modeling clay
- Natural materials found outside (twigs, bark, leaves, flowers, stones)

Use the space below to map out your diorama before you begin to build.
