The word detective comes from the verb “detect”. To detect something is to find or figure out something. Detectives look for clues and information that will help them solve a problem/figure out something. In the story Poppy is a detective (“puptective” because Poppy is a puppy). What are some of the character traits that are important to be a good detective? In the chart below, list the trait and then beside it write down why you think it is important for “detecting”? An example is provided for you.
