If you were given a backpack full of passports, money, and told to run away to another country, what would be the first three things you’d do?

Which would you rather do: Solve a mystery in Scotland or explore a secret tunnel under your town? Why?

The twins rely on each other a lot. If you were in a situation where you could only trust one person, who would that be – and why?

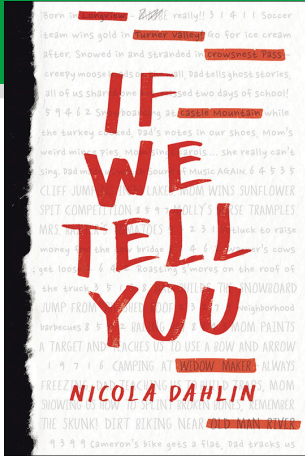

The novel alternates perspectives between Cameron and Lewis. Which twin would you rather be for a day, Cameron or Lewis, and why?

Which secondary character do you wish we could have followed more closely? What extra scenes or backstory would you like to see with them?

If this book were being made into a movie or TV show, which actor or actress would you cast as Cameron? As Lewis? As Maggs?

Aisha, Ruby, and Jamie become involved in the mystery. Which one would you most want on your “mystery-solving team,” and what would your role be?

The ending leaves things open for a sequel. What do you hope happens next for the Larsen twins?
